

Get creative... Create a mural!

Murals are a great way to tell stories! And, you can express yourself, educate and inspire others and boost confidence in the process! Team up with your Girl Scout sisters to create a mural that shares a story about an important issue:

Draft a storyboard!

Jot down notes and sketch potential images for your story.

Tell your story on canvas!

Start with pencil or chalk, then, once consensus is reached and the story feels complete, fill in work with markers or paint.

Share with others!

Unveil the mural at a community center, at school during lunchtime, or at a place of worship after a service, which will give you a chance to discuss with the public the meaning and creative process behind your work.

When you have the opportunity to express yourself in a way that engages members of your community, you'll gain confidence and feel empowered to continue to make positive changes in the world!

This activity is adapted from aMUSE, developed for Girl Scout Juniors as part of the newest leadership journey series, It's Your Story—Tell It!
